The classic handwritten signature has considerable advantages over card and PIN systems:

- Signing is a well-known, common process
- You cannot lose it
- The signature can not be forgotten
- A transfer is excluded
- The signature will never be given unintentionally
- It is accepted for the certification of declarations of intent (Simple Electronic Signature (SES))
- It (the hand) is assigned exclusively to the signatory
- It enables the identification of the signer – even more if eID or Mobile Authentication is enabled for the form
- It is created with technologies (the hand), that the signatory can keep under its sole control
